Disruption of Drug activity - Ongoing core priority

Drug taking and dealing in the streets around the town centre of Bridlington continue to be our focus. We continue to receive information and target areas of concern. Addresses with increased activity will be monitored adding to the intelligence picture. We continue to review this intelligence, obtain warrants, and target areas and individuals of concern using our stop and search powers. We continue to work with residents, Pro-active Patrols and BTP.

Operation Shield has led to numerous drug arrests. Clear, Hold, Build will further impact in this area.

You can report anonymously via 'CrimeStoppers' at https://crimestoppers-uk.org/

ASB – Town wide – Ongoing core priority

We continue to engage with the community and monitor areas subject to ASB.

We will conduct high visibility patrols and liaise with housing and social care. We are supporting local businesses with regular patrols and work with other agencies and children's homes to support youths and promote positive relationships. Liaison with schools continues. Local officers are working with housing and social services in relation to visiting youths and parents to minimise ASB.

Some youths have already been identified and we are utilising the fairway system to deal with this. We have signed youths up to Anti-Social Behaviour contracts and parents are aware of the issues they are causing. Any offences will be dealt with positively and we will look towards Youth Justice Service intervention where appropriate.

had their social media or email accounts hacked in the last year.

Data from Action Fraud, the national fraud and cybercrime reporting service, shows that more than 33,600 people reported that their online accounts had been hacked from August last year, with victims losing a total of £1.4 million.

Holiday Fraud – Action Fraud

Thinking of booking a holiday this year? Make sure you take steps to avoid falling victim to holiday fraud.

Thinking about booking a holiday this year? Follow our top tips to avoid falling victim to holiday fraud

 Do your research: Before committing and booking your dream holiday, make sure that you do a thorough online search to ensure the company is credible.

- Pay safely: Use a credit card when shopping online, if you have one. Most major credit card providers protect online purchases.
- Look for the logos: Check if a travel company is an ABTA, the Travel Association or an ABTOT, the Association of Bonded Travel Organisers Trust Limited, a member or an ATOL holder. Look for the ABTA logo on the company's website. If you have any doubts, you can verify their membership of ABTA online on their website. Also, look for the ABTOT logo and financial protection; you can see if a holiday provider is an ABTOT member by visiting their online directory. If you are booking a flight as part of a package holiday and want to find out more information about ATOL protection, visit the ATOL website ATOL protecting holidaymakers since 1973 ATOL.
- Stay safe online: Use 3 random words to create a strong password for your email that's different to all your other passwords. If 2-step verification is available, always enable it.
  - Beware of suspicious messages: Be cautious of unexpected emails or messages offering unrealistic holiday deals. If you receive a suspicious email, report it by forwarding it to: report@phishing.gov.uk
  - Protect personal information: Only fill in the mandatory details on a website when making a purchase. If possible, don't create an account for the online store when making your payment.
- Book with confidence: Be sceptical of unrealistic holiday deals. If it sounds too good to be true, it probably is. Exercise caution and research before making a purchase.

QR Codes - what's the real risk?

National Cyber Security Centre https://www.ncsc.gov.uk/blog-post/qr-codes-whats-real-risk

How safe is it to scan that QR code in the pub? Or in that email?

QR codes have been around since the 90s, although in the UK they really came to prominence during COVID lockdowns where they were used for everything from ordering food to indicating vaccination status.

They're widely used today for things like quickly directing users to websites, logging into devices that lack keyboards (such as online video services on smart devices), or ordering or paying for goods and services.

Understandably, people sometimes worry about whether to trust these QR codes. Many are used in public spaces (like pubs and restaurants), and so you might be wondering: are criminals placing malicious QR codes to steal money, information, or trick people in some way?

Reports of QR-enabled fraud in the UK can be found online (including one from BBC News where a woman was scammed at a railway station), but this type of scam is relatively small compared to other types of cyber fraud. The majority of QR code-related fraud tends to happen in open spaces (like stations and car parks), and often involves an element of social engineering. In the above example, criminals posing as bank staff rang the victim to continue the deception.

However, QR codes are increasingly being used in phishing emails (a technique sometimes called 'quishing'). From the criminal's perspective, using QR codes in this way makes sense, for a number of reasons.

- 1. Most people are now suspicious of dubious-looking links in emails, and are (correctly) cautious of clicking on shortened links. Criminals are therefore using QR codes to disguise the links to malicious websites that phishing emails contain.
- 2. Not all security tools designed to detect phishing emails will scan images, so a QR code directing the user to a malicious website might slip through.
- 3. Users are more likely to use their personal phone to scan the QR code. Personal devices may not have the same security protections as a computer that's provided by your employer.

To summarise:

- The QR codes used in pubs or restaurants are probably safe for you to scan.
- Scanning QR codes in open spaces (like stations and car parks) might be riskier. As with many cyber attacks, you should be suspicious if you're asked to provide what feels like too much information, whether that's on a website or in any follow-up communications (such as a phone call).
- If you receive an email with a QR code in it, and you're asked to scan it, you should exercise caution as the NCSC is seeing an increase in these types of 'quishing' attacks.

Finally, we recommend that you use the QR-scanner that comes with your phone, rather than using an app downloaded from an app store. For more detailed information, you can refer to the 'How to use QR codes safely' guidance from the Canadian Centre for Cyber Security.

If you feel that you have been scammed and would like to speak to someone face to face please come into your local police station for a confidential chat. It is highly likely that it will be a known scam and you will not be alone. If your local police station is closed or you are unable to get there promptly, please do not delay. Call Action Fraud or Humberside police on the numbers below for advice.

If you think you might have been a victim of fraud report it to Action Fraud by visiting actionfraud.police.uk or by calling 0300 123 2040, alternatively call Humberside Police on 101. In an emergency or if a crime is in progress dial 999.

If you have information regarding those responsible for fraud, please contact Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

HMRC's top tips for avoiding scams are:

- Recognise the signs genuine organisations like banks and HMRC will never contact you out of the blue to ask for your PIN, password or bank details.
- Stay safe don't give out private information, reply to text messages, download attachments or click on links in emails you weren't expecting.
- Take action forward suspicious emails claiming to be from HMRC to phishing@hmrc.gsi.gov.uk and texts to 60599, or contact Action Fraud on 0300 123 2040 to report any suspicious calls or use their online fraud reporting tool.
- HMRC Debt management teams do contact members of the public by phone about paying outstanding debts.

- If a customer (or agent) isn't confident that the call is from HMRC, we will ask them to call back.
   Depending on the circumstances and to give the customer confidence it is actually HMRC calling, information may be disclosed to the caller which only HMRC is party to
- Calls from the majority of HMRC offices will leave caller identification data, i.e. the number the caller has used to contact you from Never click on a link and if in doubt make your own independent enquiries.
